Pathways to Equity and Inclusion Meeting the Challenge of Diversity in Our Schools

Diversity, Inclusion and Equity are in the forefront of many school districts. It is the means to a more inclusive, more just and effective world. In education, an inclusive environment provides a better experience for all children and is instrumental in changing discriminatory attitudes. This webinar will serve to open a discussion on how diversity impacts training, performance and curriculum. When education is more inclusive, so are concepts of civic participation and community life.

Tracey Edwards, founder of Pathways to Equity, served as a Councilwoman for the Town of Huntington, as well as a Board Member of the Elwood School District. Ms. Edwards has been the Long Island Regional Director of the NAACP since 2008 and is currently a state appointed Commissioner on the NYS Public Service Commission.
